Malone Building Solutions Announces New Religious Division
Church Solutions Group Addresses Church Planning and Construction

June 25, 2006: O'FALLON, IL— Malone Building Solutions has launched a new division, Malone Church Solutions, to better serve the region's religious planning and construction needs.

“We developed this division to serve the St. Louis region's growing need for church construction and renovation,” said Marty Malone, Vice President of Malone Building Solutions. “Malone Church Solutions is dedicated to church-related construction and renovation, and this new division recognizes our specialty in that area.”

Malone Church Solutions focuses on the key areas of needs assessment, master planning, financing growth, site selection and design-build services. The division's staff includes two Certified Church Consultants who received training on the planning and construction needs of churches.

“Malone Church Solutions' staff is very experienced in design-build, and is dedicated to providing the St. Louis region with beautiful houses of worship,” Malone said.

Malone Building Solutions is a member of the National Association of Church Design Builders (NACDB), a non-profit organization that serves as an educational resource to religious groups on the planning, design and construction of churches and church-related facilities.

Malone Building Solutions, founded in 1976, is an innovative company that specializes in both the design and building aspects of commercial and religious construction. The full-service firm provides a “Concept to Completion” approach that ensures seamless project delivery.
